

As a Los Angeles area resident, I am repeatedly disgruntled by the radio station options in my area. XM has changed all that and I'm able to enjoy a wide variety of music and talk radio like never before. For instance, in the entire LA area, there is only one modern rock station. And they play the same songs over and over again. I have grown tired of their complacent simplicity, and so I now listen almost exclusively to XM radio.

I exercise my choice with my dollar. Do not limit XM or Sirius' ability to service their customers, maximize profit, and expand their offerings. If the local area radio stations want to stay competitive, they simply need to improve their programming. Additionally, power houses like Clearchannel are more harmful to the quality of FM radio than anything XM could do.

Please reject NAB's proposal and allow XM to continue to distribute their high quality programming. Thank you.
